Project Description	The City of Bridgeport has determined that the planned rebuild of the Bridgeport Water Pollution Control Authority's West Side Wastewater Treatment Plant will materially assist in addressing the negative consequences of the Covid-19 pandemic in the city, by addressing vital health needs of our citizenry and city. Covid-19 adversely impacted the city's ability to directly protect the environment. This reduced delivery of effective wastewater treatment services is both a consequence of limited local resources and a result of the operational burdens. Lower income City residents are at the greatest risk for Covid-19 due to population density, pre-existing recognized Covid-19 co-morbidities and long-standing impacts from localized flooding of dirty water. A rehabilitated West Side Wastewater Treatment Plant will go a long way to address environmental and health needs of the City's economically disadvantaged and ethnically/racially diverse urban community. This West Side sewer plant rebuild will provide the city a much higher service fully functional state-of-the-art facility located in geographic proximity to its service recipients. Moreover, as a direct consequence of the facility rebuild, reduced water pollution into local neighborhoods and into Long Island Sound will create life-saving healthy living improvements. Bridgeport residents experience a severely elevated level of recognized Covid-19 co-morbidities, including asthma, vitamin deficiencies, and untreated major illnesses. Cleaner water and wastewater runoff will improve public health. This government response will directly improve the health and welfare of a vulnerable population of Bridgeport residents.

For people who experience domestic violence, often trapped in their homes with abusers isolating them from the people and the resources that could help them. During the height of the pandemic victims faced a lack of available resources and many medical facilities were overwhelmed, making it significantly difficult for victims to get access to care. 	The City of Bridgeport has determined that the planned relocation / upgrade of the city's East Side Health Center will materially assist in addressing the negative consequences of the Covid-19 pandemic in the city, by addressing vital health care needs of our citizenry in a new state-of-the-art health care facility. Covid-19 adversely impacted the city's ability to directly provide health care, counselling, and other assistance to its residents. This reduced delivery of health-care services is both a consequence of limited local resources necessarily being diverted to directly combat the Covid-19 pandemic and a result of the operational burdens created by the need to protect as best as reasonably possible our health care providers and clients from contracting this highly contagious disease. Lower income city residents who are at the greatest risk for Covid-19 due to population density, elevated levels of pre-existing recognized Covid-19 co-morbidities and long-standing reduced access to quality health care due to

Project Description	their disadvantaged economic status and the effects of systemic racism have a desperate need for Covid-19 testing / treatment, in addition to having their other physical and mental health-care needs timely met. A rehabilitated East Side Health Center will go a long way to address the health-care needs of the city’s economically disadvantaged and ethnically/racially diverse urban community, with its high migrant and non-English speaking population. The newly relocated East Side Health Center Rehabilitation will provide the city and its high service needs health care client population with a highly accessible “welcoming to all” and fully functional state-of-the-art public health service facility located in geographic proximity to its service recipients. Moreover, as a direct consequence of the facility rehabilitation, this service provider will be able to offer and reliably deliver life-saving and other essential medical treatments, even despite the operational challenges imposed by the Covid-19 pandemic. Unfortunately, due to their financial and environmental circumstances, Bridgeport residents experience, unhealthy diets, obesity, asthma, vitamin deficiencies, and untreated major illnesses. One of the most effective means to address the Covid-19 health crisis is through direct targeted governmental action, in this instance either via city staff and resources or engagement of competitively procured third-party services. This government response will directly improve the health and welfare of a vulnerable population of Bridgeport residents. The most efficient means to address the Covid-19 induced health crisis is through concerted government action. This project will directly improve the health and quality of life for Bridgeport health-care clients; and will indirectly materially benefit the wider population by facilitating treated patients’ ability to provide for their families and other dependents once their own basic health-care needs are addressed by health-care professionals at a conveniently located safe and accessible site. Thus, this project will have both an immediate positive impact on Covid-19 local response. Project scope is site work which involves a new parking lot, new drainage, new exterior lighting, retaining walls and landscaping, and a new roof and repointing exterior masonry. The interior consists of a new elevator, new bathrooms, renovating the basement area with offices, break room, community computer room and entertainment area for the Veteran affairs department. The second floor will be new offices, reception/ waiting area, break rooms and health clinic exam rooms, storage areas with IT and security upgrades.
